Legal Tender Money In History Economists, Financiers And Jurists Examine Issue

HOW legal are in reality the sosions of a host of currencies including the United States? The question has been answered in innumerable fashions. The last official answer was provided by Title III of the May 12, 1932, Act which redefined legal tender provisions of all United States currencies, paper and metallic, and did away with the earlier imposed limits — the validity of this redefinition has never been tested before the courts however.

An interesting although disappointing trend has developed in recent years which indicates clearly public apathy towards the subjects of legal tender provisions or even intrinsic value of coinage in the United States. In this respect, the 19th century citizen. culturally perhaps less developed, has shown greater awareness and preoccupation with the subject of money, its value and function.

The same period produced Edward Atkinson of Massachusetts (1827-1905), industrialist, financier, and economist. Founder and ultimately chief executive of Boston Manufacturers Mutual Insurance Company. Atkinson served as a special commissioner on President Cleveland's team in 1887, investigating the progress of bi-metalism in Europe. In his writings Atkinson emerges as an advocate of sound money, free trader, pacifist and anti-imperialist — a rare combination indeed and a drastic departure of the contemporary liberal mystique which clearly labels preoccupation with sound money as an "imperialistic and capitalistic endeavor."

In 1894, while Atkinson was at the height of his career, he published an interesting pamphlet enquiring into the historical significance of legal tender provisions. The document was studied and analyzed by an anonymous chronicler of the Century Magazine in 1894.

What is the meaning of the term "legal tender," as applied to money? "The Century Dictionary" defines it as "currency which can lawfully be used in paying a debt". A briefer and common definition is "compulsory circulation", and this is the term applied to such money habitually in most South American countries, "curso forzado". Edward Atkinson, in a recent very interesting pamphlet, cites legal tender among some examples of words of which the meaning has been perverted to the vitiation of public thought, and says legal tender should be defined as "an act by which bad money may be forced into use so as to drive good money out of circulation." He has made a search through history for legaltender acts, and concludes from his discoveries "that no decree and no statute of legal tender ever originated anywhere except for the purpose of forcing a debased coin into circulation, or for the purpose of collecting a forced loan by making paper substitutes for coin a legal tender for debts"

This conclusion must be confirmed by everybody else making like research. The first case of legal tender on record, Mr. Atkinson thinks, was in Greece, in the sixth century before Christ, when Solon debased the coinage so that one hundred new drachmae were worth no more than seventy-three of the old ones. Another case occurred in Rome, when the senate reduced the weight of the copper money of the republic during the second Punic war. Philip le Bel, of Spain, about 1506, debased the pound sterling, and enforced the circulation of the depreciated money based upon it by decree of legal tender. Professor James B. Thayer of the Harvard Law School is cited by Mr. Atkinson as authority for the statement that the first appearance of legal tender in English history was in the time of Edward III (1312-1377), who debased the coin, and by a decree of the crown made it a penal offense to refuse the debased money.

It is interesting to note that

It is interesting to note that Mr. Atkinson referred to distinguished Professor James B. Thayer (1831-1902) of Harvard Law School, graduate of the Harvard class of 1852. Thayer's contributions to the philosophy of Law are immense, most of his works deal with the definition and introduction of evidence and related subjects, however. In this light his inquiry into early legal tender statutes is most fortuitious.

Commenting further on the history of legal tender "Century Magazine" wrote: "A little more than three hundred years later, in 1689. James II of England made a similar experiment. He was then reigning in Dublin, whither he had returned after abdicating and fleeing to France, and was seeking to regain his throne with the aid of an Irish Parliament. He was confronted with an empty treasury, and conceived the notion, according to Macaulay, that the could extricate himself from his financial difficulties by the simple process of calling a farthing a shilling.' He reasoned that since the right of coining money belonged to the royal prerogative, the right of debasing the coinage must also belong to it. Macaulay gives an entertaining account of the outcome of his experiment, from which we quote a few passages:

Pots, pans, knockers of doors pieces of ordnance, which had long been past use, were carried to the mint. In a short time, lumps of base metal, nominally worth near a shilling sterling, intrinsically worth about a sixteenth part of that sum, were in circulation. A royal edict declared these pieces to be legal tender in all cases whatsoever. A mortgage for a thousand pounds was cleared off by bag of counters made out of old kettles . . . Any man who belonged to the cast now dominant might walk into a shop, lay on the counter a bit of brass worth three pence, and carry off goods to the value of half a guinea. Legal redress was out of the question . . . Of all the plagues of that time none made a deeper or more lasting impression on the minds of the Protestants of Dublin than the plague of the brass money: "During our Revolutionary War the Continental currency was made a legal tender, and one of the most formidable obstacles with which the patriot cause had to contend was the debased money which was thus given a forced circulation. Readers of "The Century's" Cheap-Money series remember the disastrous results which followed the efforts of the State government of Rhode Island, between 1785 and 1787, to enforce its decrees making the money of the Rhode Island Paper Bank a legal tender. Business of all kinds was paralyzed, money ceased almost entirely to circulate, the State's credit was ruined, and its prosperity dealt a blow from which it aid not recover for many years. France, as was snown in the same series, went through the same experience twice-once with John Law's money, between 1718 and 1720, and again with its assignats and mandats, between 1789 and 1796. So also did Alabama with its State Bank in

Coins, Tokens and Currency of Puerto Rico

The Interesting History of a Future State

By MAURICE M. GOULD
THE Commonwealth of Puerto

Rico, with such close ties to the United States, and the possibility that it may some day be our fifty-first State, has attracted a great deal of interest and enthusiasm among the coin collectors in the United States.

The Island was discovered by Christopher Columbus in 1493 and its history has been one of war, privateers, pirates and revolts.

Puerto Rico was ceded to the United States in 1898, after the Spanish-American War, and American citizenship was granted to the people in 1917.

The numismatic history of Puerto Rico is of great interest to the student and collector, with the early Cob and Pillar pieces, to the Hacienda Tokens, which were so popular on the Island.

Puerto Rico used the same Spanish Colonial coins which circulated all over North and South America, and the Pieces of Eight and Doubloon of pirate fame circulated along with the other Spanish Colonial pieces culated along with the other Spanish Colonial pieces.

In 1857, the same year that the United States demonetized the Spanish Colonial coins, all of the crude silver Cob coins were ordered withdrawn from circulation. At this time, the Mexican, British, French and United States coins were circulating on the Island.

VIKENE .

During the 1870's, there was a serious shortage of coins, and the coins which were circulating were holed to prevent them from leaving the Island. A law was passed stating that all the holed coins should be counterstamped with a fleur-de-lis, and these pieces are now collectors' items and are known on many varieties of coins, including U. S., silver dollars, trade dollars, half-dollars, quarters, twenty cent pieces, Spanish silver, and even a few copper and bronze pieces. These pieces are now scarce and eagerly sought after by the counterstamp and collector alike.

The only regular Puerto Rican coinage was coined in 1895 and 1896. The peso, or dollar size coin, was struck in 1895, with a mintage of 8½ million. The 40 centavos, 1896, 725,000 minted. The 20 centavos were struck in 1895, 967,000 minted. The 10 centavos, 1896, 700,000 minted. The 5 centavo, 1896, 600,000 minted.

All of these pieces were struck in silver and are scarcer than the mintage indicates because innumerable coins have been mutilated and used for jewelry over the years. The 5 centavo piece is especially found on many bracelets and other forms of jewelry as it is a thin, small silver coin.

For many years the 1896 twenty centavos in silver has been listed in the various Puerto Rican catalogs, but recently, after a great deal of research, Kenneth Bressett of Whitman Publishing Company, has stated that he does not believe there are any in existence and I am inclined to agree with him on this point.

This series of coins should prove to be a good investment, as they are needed as type coins and are collected by numismatists all over the world, and are of special interest to Spanish Collectors.

The largest series of numismatic items are the Tokens of Puerto Rico. Of unusual interest are the Plantation or Hacienda Tokens, which are most frequently issued in the 1880's and 1890's, as wages to the workers on the plantations. They circulated widely and were accepted by the local merchants, as well as at the company stores, in exchange for goods.

When the merchants accumulated enough of the tokens, they would send them back for redemption to the plantation or hacienda owners, and the amazing part was that none of these tokens were unredeemed or not honored for cash.

There are more than 250 varieties known and new ones come to light from time to time. They come in various metals, such as brass, copper, bronze, nickel, aluminum, tin, etc.

minum, tin, etc.

Most of the denominations of these tokens are in almudes. The almude was a measure which was used to measure coffee to the coffee pickers. The other denominations which were used were Centavos, Reales, and Jornaldiario.

Many of the pieces are counter-stamped and some very crudely. One unusual one has an eight pointed star and various Masonic symbols and these were worth 25% more than the regular varieties

The Tokens of the Hacienda Mercedita were in some cases cut into quarters for use as small

The only set which I have seen available in quantity at any time was that of the Hacienda Vega Redonda and these Tokens are slowly disappearing out of dealers' stocks into collections, so it will not be long before even these items are seldom available.

Many denominations were used, such as 6½ centavos, 12½ centavos, 1 cent, 4 reales, ½ reale, 3 reales, 4 centavos, and many others

The bible of the Puerto Rico numismatist is "Money of Puerto Rico" published by the Whitman Publishing Company. This book lists 245 different tokens and varieties.

The Hacienda de Miguel Marquez Y Ensenat Token issued in 1882 has the following denominations: 1 almud and the 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 almudes. The obverse of this Token has a radiant sun in a circle of dots and is a very attractive piece. The reverse of these Tokens differs only in that they have the different denominations on them.

Some of the Tokens are just pieces of metal with crude counterstamps on them and in the case of the S. Alvarado, Aguadilla, this Token has no denomination on it.

Puerto Rican Tokens will follow along with the tokens of Alaska, Virgin Islands, and Mexico in popularity. The Tokens are still priced very reasonably in comparison to coins and many collectors have found this field to be fascinating and there is always the chance of a new variety coming to light.

Canadian Tokens are now considered part of the numismatics of Canada and the Puerto Rican Tokens are taking their rightful place alongside the other series. Prices are still nominal, but will continue to rise as they become more and more difficult to find.

There is a small series of paper money issued for Puerto Rico, and all are considered scarce or rare, except the Billete de Canie notes. These were bills of exchange, all with a value of 1 peso, under the Decree of August 17 1895 and were originally issued in books containing ful! sheets of notes. They were also used to detect counterfeits and the notes were cut from the stubs with a special knife, so that a wavy edge would be left. Then the notes could be compared to the stubs. against the serial numbers, and the manner in which the edge

Some of these pieces come with the original counterfoil and stub, some with the counterfoil and others without the counterfoil or stub.

Among the other rare pieces known are an 8 reales note of 1813 Tesoreria Nacional de Puerto Rico. This crude note is very rare. The 3 peso and 5 peso notes of 1815 are also rare and issued by the Royal Treasury of Puerto Rico to pay the Bearer in coin under guarantee of the taxes of the Islands. These notes look a great deal like the early American broken banknotes of the early 1815 period.

Among other interesting notes are those issued by the Railroad Company of Puerto Rico and were good for 5 pesos in silver Mexican coins to be paid the Bearer upon presentation at the cashier's office of the Railroad Company. These notes were printed in London and probably issued during the 1830's.

The Banco Espanol de Puerto Rico issued notes during 1896 to 1900 and the two denominations known are the 5 peso and 10 peso. One unusual feature of the 5 peso of 1900 is the overprint Moneda Americana, meaning "American Money."

In 1904 the Bank of Puerto Rico issued a 5 peso note with the inscription in both English and Spanish and in 1909 the same bank issued a $10 note and the only known piece is in poor condition. All of these pieces are

All these diversified forms of debased money were made legal tenders, and their circulation was forced by all the powers of the governments which had issued them.

"No one can examine historical evidence upon this point and not be convinced that every act of legal tender has been passed to force into circula-tion a form of money which would not otherwise circulate at all. Sometimes this has been the assumed necessity of a great war like that of the Revolution, and later, of the Rebellion, but oftener it has been the outcome of ignorance or something Worse

"Good money needs no act of legal tender to make it circulate. Mr. Atkinson makes an unanswerabie argument on this point by citing the fact that the great international commerce of the world has been carried on from its beginning to the present time without international act of legal tender. There has been no trouble experienced in finding a satisfactory form of money for this trade. The traders of the world have selected gold as the medium of exchange, because it best answers the purpose, and no act of international legal tender, if such a thing were possible, would have the slightest effect upon them. They would still go on using gold.

"Why, then, should we go on making silver, or any other form of money, a legal tender? Why not accept the proposal made

FACTS YOU SHOU

Regarding the 1964 Pointed and Blunt tail 9 Dimes

The Pointed tail 9 is rare, the Blunt tail 9 is common, this is our opinion from a lengthy detailed research. There are less than 2,000,000 Pointed tail 9 1964-P dimes, with over 300,000,000 Blunt tail 9's with the balance of this year and next year this could mean up to 1,000,000,000 yes, one billion, Blunt tail 9 dimes of 1964-P will be available. When you consider the ratio 2,000,000 and 1,000,000,000 you have a rare item.

The 1964-D Pointed tail 9 isn't as rare but only some 47,000,000 are out in comparison to up to 2,000,000,000, yes two billion Blunt tail 9's. The U.S. Mint is out to flood the market! And they will. But the more they make the more rare the Pointed tail 9 dime will be!

The pattern is the same as the 1960 small date cents. They were struck the early part of the year, thereafter all large dates; so be it hereafter all Blunt tail 9 dimes. The 1964 Proof sets have the same variety, again the Pointed tail 9 is in a strict minority, only 35,000 similar to the 1960 small date proof set mintage. Over 3,000,000 1964 proof sets will be made, thus 2,965,000 will be of the Blunt type! We have a limited supply of this promising dime variety.

Canadian Prooflike Sets Draw Investors Numismatic Community Prepares For January 1

By RUSSELL BROWN

FOR the third week, the teletypes have offered bundles of 1,000 order forms with which to obtain the new Canadian proof like sets which become available on the first of the year. Since there has been a five set maximum imposed on Canadian set orders, apparently the feeling is that many investors will suddenly discover countless in-laws and relatives in whose names they will file these orders.

Never before in numismatics with the possible exception of the 1964 U. S. sets, has such attention been focused on one particular issue. And certainly never before has one numismatic item had more going for it than this Canadian issue.

The reason for this attention stems from the fact that there are no fewer than nine major arguments in favor of a spectacular rise-to-come for the 1965 set. Let's take a look at these points and try to counter them if possible:

1. 1965 will be the first year of issue for a new design on all Canadian coins. Proof coins or proof like coins of a first year of issue usually do very well, appreciation-wise, in the investment

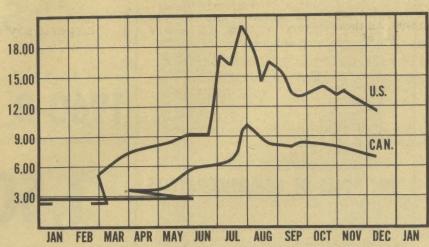

2. The sets will contain four silver coins to be released at a time when the U. S. will be in the act of debasing its own coinage. If this debasement is accompanied by a rise in the price of silver, the intrinsic value of the Canadian dime, quarter, half and dollar might well reach face

3. Since no silver dollars in proof like condition will be offered except in the sets, the collectors of these beautiful coins will have to buy sets to obtain them. 4. While the Canadian mint will profit to a certain extent on the sets ($4.00 selling price less $1.91 face plus handling costs) there is no direct dealer commission and you are assured that everyone will be paying the same price for their sets.

5. The maximum order for the sets is five per purchaser and since some policing will surely be done, it may be safely said that acquiring a quantity of the sets will be ten times harder than it was last year when the maximum order was 50 sets. This inability to accumulate large hoards of the sets will force the dealers to put together hundred set lots from individuals at prices ranging to $5.00 before they start a promotion which seems certain to push the price to $10.00 per set in the early months of production and delivery.

6. According to mint officials, there will be no increase in production facilities at the Canadian Mint and as a result, the number of sets turned out will probably stay under two million, an emission comparable to the U.S. production of 1960. This relatively small number of sets should certainly have at least as good a projected future as U. S. issues of double the number or even the Canadian 1964 set which is

This graph shows relative price performance of the 1964 U. S. and Canadian proof sets. The U. S. set was available from the mint for $2.10; the Canadian set for $2.79. While orders were accepted for the U. S. sets during a very brief and interrupted period, the Canadian mint was receptive to orders for almost half of currently bid at between $6.00 and $7.00.

7. As everyone knows, there will be no 1965 U.S. proof sets and as a result, many U.S. investors will be looking for a similar investment vehicle in which to place their funds. Since there is a distinct desire shown by a large number of collectors to stick to American material, the Canadian mint sealed sets are the leading candidate for purchase.

8. U. S. purchasers of the Canadian sets get a very favorable break on the current rate of exchange. At ninety-odd percent, the four dollar Canadian set costs you $3.72 in U.S. funds.

9. There is a certain amount of difficulty involved in obtaining drafts on Canadian funds that is not present when obtaining a U. S. cashier's check. This added difficulty will cause many investors to wait for the sets to be delivered and then to buy them at a slight increase in price. These investors will provide a ready market for those who are willing to go to the trouble to order early.

Nine Point Discussion Looking over the nine points listed above, very few seem open to challenge. Certainly a first year of issue will be valuable not only in the current year as a type set addition but also in future years as a starting point for a date collection of the new design.

While the price of silver will probably not increase for at least several years, all coins with silver content, be it .900 fine or .500 fine will be the subject of interest and speculation and will appreciate accordingly in price.

A considerable number of the proof like dollars were minted and sold separately in 1964. The dollar collection is one of the more popular in Canada and as a result the number of sets which are broken to obtain the dollars will cause a rise in price by the unbroken sets.

Last year, the Canadian mint sold the same sets for three dollars. Since probably a full third of those sold were in fifty set lots, it figures that they will have a considerably larger record keeping, mailing and packaging expense this year. It must be remembered, however, that the collector is starting out with this set at over double face value and there is a certain amount of danger in this if the proof set and proof like set market ever suffers a serious correction. Also if the U.S. decides to go back into the proof set business, there will almost certainly be a downward correction in the price of the Canadian set.

You cannot dispute the fact that with the maximum order at five, it will be harder to obtain large numbers of the sets for dealer to dealer sales and as a result, those able to provide these lots will be able to name a high price. The only danger lies in the possibility it will be so difficult to form lots that the 1965 will not get the active promotion that the 1964 set received and will

Cashdan's Coin Comments

Eliot J. Cashdan

Eliot J. Cashdan WELL, all is not lost in the coin business. We have just returned from attending the Heart of

> WANTED 1915-D or S BARBER HALVES Pay 80c ea. Roll $17.00 HAUSER COIN 9729 Lyndale Av. So. Mpls., Minn.

America Numismatic Association (HANA) convention which was held in Kansas City, Kansas over the Thanksgiving week-end. We are happy to report that business was good for a change, and although certain items sold at low prices, at least coins were being sold actively and traded actively. Most of the dealers that we talk ed to seemed quite opti-mistic about the future of the coin business, although there were a few who still seemed to think that the world was coming to an end soon.

There will always be collectors, and it is hard to take a man who has been collecting for years and make a non-collector out of him. Of course after a while it is possible that he will collect buttons or cigar bands, but once a collector, always a collector. If the dealers will realize this and try to take care of the individual collector, we don't think that there will ever be any shortage of collectors in this country.

At times collecting runs into different channels, as at the moment there seems to be a boom in foreign crowns and foreign proof sets, and collectors all over the country are becoming interested in these items. Due to all the interest in these items of foreign material, the prices have gone up sharply recently. This acts conversely on the collector, and when the prices continue to advance, he will be in the market to collect something else that Many foreign countries that never heard of proof sets are trying to get in on the booming market by coming out with proof sets in fancy cases at fantastic prices. Of course most of these countries have had good experience with the stamp collectors on whom they make a real good profit several times a year each time they come out with a new issue of stamps.

Being that proof sets can only come out with one date each year, we suppose they figure that they have to up the ante a little bit in order to take full advantage of the situation. We understand that Canada, whom we suppose has been making a profit on its proof sets at $3.00 per set, has raised the price to $4.00 for the 1965 sets. Of course considering the high prices of some of the foreign sets from obscure countries, the Canadian sets are well worth $4.00 in our opinion, and why not let the Canadian Government make a few bucks

The trouble on many of the foreign sets is that there seem to be too many middle men in between the sets and the collectors.

Most of the governments are not too greedy, but in many cases there are certain individuals who tie up the entire production or a major portion of the production and then add on a nice profit for themselves. One thing we firmly believe though is that if the United States Treasury Department gets into the proof set manufacturing field again, many of the collectors who have recently started buying foreign sets as a result of the ces-(Continued on Page 12)

(Continued from Page 8) sation of manufacture of U. S. sets will return to buying U. S. sets. This will undoubtedly enable collectors to purchase the foreign sets at reasonable prices if this ever occurs. One thing we can say about the foreign sets though, is that most of them contain beautiful coins which are well struck. The presentation cases that they come in do enhance the looks of the coins, although the coins will probably tarnish after a while. We have seen some sets oven ten years old that were kept in the original presentation cases and they had toned out beautifully.

Here is an interesting item that we received from Australia that we thought might interest you.

"Australia is scheduled to introduce decimal currency in February 1966 to replace the British system of pounds, shillings, and pence which has been followed since the first settlement in 1788. The new coins will carry the designs of some of Australia's unique wild-life on the reverse side of the coins. The head, or obverse of the coins will bear the effigy of the Queen with the inscription, 'Elizabeth II, Australia, 1966.'

This will be the nation's first full set of coins designed as a matching group. The existing coins have been produced more or less piecemeal over the last 54 years since Australia began to mint her own currency. The coins number six and the designs on the reverse side consists of motifs of some of the members of Australia's unique fauna with a large numeral indicating the number of cents. This will make the value of each coin apparent immediately even to those unfamiliar with them. The motifs are the feather tailed glider (1c), frilled lizard (2c), echidna (5c), lyre bird

(10c), platypus (20c), coat-of-arms (kangaroo and emu) (50c)

The feather-tail glider, the smallest of the Australian gliding marsupials which glides by means of membranes along its sides is strictly nocturnal and is quite common in the forests of Eastern Australia. One of its bush nicknames —the flying mouse — will give an idea of its size.

The frilled lizard is found only in the tropical north of Australia. It grows to about three feet in length, most of it tail. It is harmless, but when cornered it presents a gaping hissing mouth in the middle of its brightly colored neck frill.

The echidna or spiny ant eater is one of the only two egg laying mammals, (the other is the platypus). Like the hedgehog, it depends on its spines for protection, and rolls up into a tight ball when it becomes frightened. It is about eighteen inches long and it thrives in every part of Australia. A species which is related to this animal is found in New Guinea.

The lyrebird on the ten cent coin is the male of the species as it appears when dancing and singing, with its magnificent tail expanded and thrown forward over its head. The lyrebird is a famous mimic. It is about the size of a pheasant, and inhabits dense damp forests in eastern Australia from from Southern Queensland down to Victoria.

The platypus is Australia's other egg laying mammal. It suckles its young. It is found in the rivers and creeks of the Eastern side of the continent. It is about eighteen inches long and has webbed feet and rich short fur. It swims with the skill and dash of a seal.

The Australian Coat of arms is supported by the kangaroo and the emu on the 50c coin. The kangaroo is Australia's biggest marsupial, and one or other of the species are found in every part of the continent. The doe, which can be four or five feet tall, gives birth to a 'joey' which is only an inch or so long and which completes its developement in its mother's pouch. The emu is the second largest bird in the world, only the ostrich is bigger. Before being pushed back by settlement, the emu ranged all over Australia. The male bird incubates the eggs and takes care of the chicks when they hatch. The bird and animal designs are the work of Melbourne artist, Mr. Stuart Devlin, and the effigy of the Queen was done by a British artist, Mr. Arnold Machin and was personally approved by the Queen for use on the coins of Commonwealth countries. Small scale production of the coins has already begun at the Australian mints, but it is not expected that a complete set of

Will they consent, after a ratio between gold and silver shall have been agreed upon, to leave both metals to stand upon their own merits as money, without the aid of any legal-tender enactment? That would surely be doing as much for silver as for gold, and it would soon be demonstrated which metal they preferred to use as money."

Unquestionably, the historical review of legal tender money has some political overtones definitely slanted in favor of a single gold standard. This is substantiated by the reference to the Wells proposal. David Ames Wells of Massachusetts (1828-1898) gained an early reputation in monetary matters when in 1864 at the age of 36 he published his famous "Our Burden and Our Strength." A book destined to reassure foreigners about the stability of the dollar and ability of the United States to meet its internal and external obligations. The book printed in 200,000 copies was translated into French. German, Dutch and a host of other languages, it received world-wide acclaim. Wells was at one time a special partner in the publishing firm of G. P. Putman of contemporary fame. Wells' career culminated by his appointment as U.S. Commissioner of Revenue. He was an able financial advisor to President Garfield with whom he also shared a warm personal friendship. Throughout his writings, Wells emerges as an avowed enemy of fiat money; of special interest are: "The Cremation Theory of Specie Resumption" 1875; "Robinson Crusoe's Money" 1876; "The Silver Question'

No increase in production facilities certainly argues for continued price appreciation in Canadian sets. The trend at the Mint during the past several years has been one of more than doubling production each twelve months and it is possible that a set production reaching 3,000,000 would glut the market. The only question in doubt is whether the discontinuance of proof like dollar production for separate order will allow materially increased

A. C. D. E. Discontinues Operations

Houston based Associated Coin Dealers Exchange moved to discontinue their teletype operations this week, apparently due to economic pressures. The Exchange serviced some ninety dealers on a nation-wide basis.

While we were unable to obtain any information directly from the principals of the Exchange, it was reported to us by an employee that the dealers served by A.C.D.E. have been placed en masse on the waiting list of the Professional Coin Dealers Exchange. The P.C.D.E. has a full contingent of ninety members and as a result, many of the A.C.D.E. dealers will be forced to go without teletype facilities or switch to another exchange.

This operational discontinuance follows closely the merger by the American Numismatic Exchange with the United States Coin Exchange and reduces the number of national exchanges to three in number. How much the pressure of a declining market has had to do with these mergers and closures can only be estimated but it is known that a rising number of non-paying clients has caused great hardship on many of the teletype issued in 1869 by Authority of Republican Central Council of Cuba and Puerto Rico. This note states it is indebted to the Bearer in the amount of 1 peso and these notes were convertible into bonds of the Republic of Cuba when presented in amounts of more than 100 pesos to the Treasury and the Council. The 1 and 5 peso denomination notes are known and these notes were issued in New York by the Republican Central Council of Cuba and Puerto Rico, a revolutionary organization. These notes were not legal tender in Puerto Rico and never circulated on the National bank notes were issued by the First National Bank of Puerto Rico in San Juan, series of 1902, red seal, in the following denominations: $5, $10, issued in 1902 were blue seal notes with the dates 1902-1908 on the reverse. These also come in the same denominations as the red seal. All of these notes are rare and some are ex$20, $50, and $100. Also tremely rare.

Numismatics of Puerto Rico are taking their place beside the numismatics of Hawaii, Alaska, Virgin Islands and the Philippines, which are collected by many collectors in the U. S. as well as other parts of the world. There are no great quantities of coins available and it is unlikely that any worthwhile hoards will come to light, so that anyone with an interest in this field should obtain his material as soon as possible.

Very little has been compiled in the paper money field and I believe that new discoveries will come to light when more research is completed.

I am sure that when the second edition of "The Money of Puerto Rico" published by the Whitman Publishing Company goes into another printing, it will contain all of the new material which has been discovered and researched since the first edition.

A collection of Puerto Rican material, from the early 1500's, encompassing all of the coins from the

Today, the regular U. S. coinage is used on the Island, and I have been told by visitors and people who have been stationed there, that in some of the smaller towns many of the Barber dimes, quarters, and half-dollars, dated 1892 to 1916, are still circulating.

While you only pay ninety three cents on the dollar for Canadian merchandise, it must be remembered that you only get ninety three cents on the dollar for Canadian coins deposited in this country. The difference is so small, however, that it is forgotten after several years when numismatic value makes face value insignificant.

The best bet on obtaining drafts on Canadian funds seem to be the U.S. Post Office. The cost for a draft ordering five sets at a bank will range from ten cents to fifty cents. A postal money order is thirty cents. The investor will use the cheapest of the two depending on his banking connections. A word of caution, however. The preparation of these drafts or money orders takes time and you would be well advised to get yours er, Master of the Canadian Mint, the following points were discussed and we present them here in full.

Q. What is done with orders which are received prior to January first?

A. They are returned to sender. We are not equipped to handle 1965 orders until the completion of 1964. All orders for 1965 sets must arrive no earlier than January first.

Q. What will you do if the sender pays $3.72 in U. S. funds?

A. The order will be returned. To be accepted, orders must be in completely correct form with correct payment for sets ordered. Only orders for one, three or five sets may be tendered.

Q. Can a number of people send in orders with one covering check in one envelope?

A. No. Such an order would be returned.

Q. Can a number of people send in their senarate orders with senarate checks in one envelope?

A. No. Such an order would be returned. An order to be accepted must arrive in its own separate envelope.

Q. How long do you anticipate orders will be accepted by the Mint for the 1965 sets.

A. We have no way of knowing how the new price, new maximum or present demand will affect ordering. We do anticipate that orders will be closed well before year end.

Q. How much policing will go into the mint's procedures to protect against hoarding?

A. You can surely realize that with the tremendous number of orders, nothing short of extensive double checking can prevent acceptance of multiple orders. We feel that the five set maximum will materially reduce hoarding. And spot checks will be made of any names or addresses that appear too often.

Q. What is the identity of Coins Uncirculated? Is this a department of the Mint or an outside concern?

A. Coins Uncirculated is a department of the mint which handles all proof like coin orders.

For our readers' convenience, we are including several order blanks for the 1965 proof like sets in this issue of PACE.

Milwaukee Numismatic society was born. Started as an information exchange by six collectors, the society has grown to a membership of 150 today.

Four years ago it produced an oddball offshoot, the Society of Odd and Curious Media, composed of numismatists who are intrigued by things other than coins that are used as money — the odder the better. Though it's an international group that stretches to the Orient and to Europe, it totals only 50 members, three of them in the Milwaukee area.

Collector of Wampum
The president is Gale V.
Highsmith, a machine designer, computer programmer and former president of the numismatic society.

At the drop of an African neck ring, he is happy to show collections of "money" that range from rhinoceros horns to exquisite jade carvings, from spearheads decorated with copper inlays to bullets, from birds of paradise to beads

Highsmith is said to have one of the largest wampum collections in the United States. He also has a rare bird of paradise, still a medium of exchange in remote areas of New Guinea. Perfect feathers from the birds are used as small change.

In the Katanga area of the Congo, native money is likely to be Baluba crosses. They are simply copper Xs cast in molds thumbed into sand. In 1961, when Katanga produced coins of its own, they carried a Baluba cross design.

In primitive areas of the world, teeth, tusks and shells have served as money for years, Highsmith reported. They are available, ornamental, durable—and teeth and shells, at least, can be carried easily.

Some of the items are acquired from other collectors, some at estate auctions, some from missionaries who are willing to give up souvenirs to help finance their work.

The collector of the odd and curious cares little for standard coins; he's more interested in uniqueness and perfection of items. If he finds a pair of matched walrus tusks in perfect condition, for example, he may part with the mortgage money to get them.

Regardless of how he decides to specialize, the true numismatist is not as concerned with the increase in value of his collection as he is with his increase in knowledge while searching for and finding the items.

Space City Averages:

With close to 1,500 separate statistics appearing each week in PACE, a need exists to express this information in graphic form for busy readers. We are currently charting eight different coin series each week as you see below. These charts are based on Space City Averages, an arbitrarily chosen group of rolls which we feel are representative of the total for that series.

To be included in the Space City Averages rolls are chosen on the basis of three factors: (1) their trading is constant, (2) they are widely held, and (3) they are indicative of the

It is obvious infrequently traded items, closely held items, and ex-tremes in the series would not serve this purpose.

Each week the statistical staff of PACE prepares these averages from the information obtained on The American Numismatics Exchange transactions.

The amount expressed in the Space City averages is the total market bid prices for the rolls included in the averages. This is a dollar figure and is compared with previous week, month, and year figures for analysis. The high and low for 1964 is also

MARKET SUMMARY

By Russell Brown

TORN between allowing the market to continue its orderly decline or driving it down by artificial pressures, dealers this week chose Jefferson nickels as a prov-ing ground for the latter course of action. As a result, prices fell so rapidly that no bids were to be found at closing and just what many of the issues were worth was anybody's guess.

The keys of the series with the exception of the 1939-D were hard hit. The 1950-D lost $90 while the 1942-D and 1939-S dropped $75 and $50 respectively. Of the seventy one issues in the series, forty five were in decline. Pace prices were closed three times and twice reopened to pick up later, lower offers.

Lincoln cents were bypassed by much of the action but there were still 27 declines against only three advances. Six issues lost five dollars or more in a market that saw few sales transacted.

Dimes were also among the more unpopular of issues with that denomination scoring twenty three declines and not a single advance. The key 1949-S was offered at some $50 below its previous level. The 1955 issues lost heavily. The '55-P is back in the nineties; the '55-S back in the thirties. The 1950-P and 1948-P also scored two digit losses.

Washington quarters slipped quietly lower due to the market's general inactivity. Selective buving caused advances by the 1943-S and 1950-S. However, the 1951-

S was in decline to the tune of $25 and it was joined by ten other issues.

Franklin half dollars were a duplicate of quarter activity. Showing the same advance decline ratio, several of the late date issues rose slightly while a number of the keys and semi keys were off by large amounts. The 1949-P lost $10 while the 1955-P seemed to lose some of its usual following and slipped

Morgan dollars continue to correct downward in price as issue after issue declines with a rush. As usual this week we had over a half dozen issues losing $25 or more. Also noted was a loss trend of small proportions running through the O mint issues. In all, declines exceeded advances by 34

Peace dollars put in a typical week with mixed prices; some higher and some lower. While the 1927-S was gaining $25 and the 1927-P and 1934-S were losing $40 and $100.

Proof sets were more inactive than they have been in some time. Most prices stayed put at levels of last week. The 1950 set rose five dollars in the face of demand for several sets. The only major sign of weakness was exhibited by the 1955 and 1964 sets. The 1955 set lost $3 and the '64 once again turned tail in the face of selling pressure and dropped back into the $11 area.

Circulated coinage seems to be completely inactive. Nickels and dimes seldom if ever move and the prices on the Franklin half dollars are coming down slowly. The price levels of late date

Canadian proof like sets slipped somewhat over the course of the week with the 1964 set now being bid at $6.50. Another $2.50 and you will be able to buy it for $4 instead of the 1965 set.

The Market Opinion

And what a shame it is, everyone opines, that there are no short sales on the downside coin market. This certainly is a problem and many dealers are hard pressed to figure out how they are going to make ends meet while prices continue to fall.

The consensus is that if the market is allowed to run its course and reach an economic bottom it will take too much time and all of the fair weather investors will be long gone by the time it tries to rise once again, The popular feeling is that if pressure is exerted on the market and a selloff forced, the various issues will reach their bottoms more quickly and a recovery can be initiated sooner than otherwise. The only consideration overlooked in this approach is that a forced selloff will cause the prices to go much lower than they ordinarily would.

For the dealer with no inventory or the investor who has seld out, this is fine since it will be possible to buy back in much lower. But for the investor or dealer with a shelves full of rolls and sets purchased at the peak of the market, these are trying times indeed.

BU Roll Prices as of Wednesday, Dec. 9, 1964

These bid and asked prices, from the American Numismatic Exchange Inc., do not necessarily represent actual transactions. They are a guide to the range within which these coins could have been sold (indicated by the "bid") or bought (indicated by the "asked") at the time of compilation. Price changes are obtained by comparison of weekly bid prices.

Prices are wholesale quotations compiled from the American Numismatic Exchange teletype system which serves 195 coin dealers across the country.

New Delhi-Indian honored the memory of the late Prime Minister, Mr. Nehru, by issuing special rupee coins bearing his profile on the occasion of his 75th birthday.

Special stamps bearing Mr. Nehru's pictures were also issued.

Mr. Nehru's 40-room official residence was declared open as a museum to house his personal papers and belongings.

At Shantivana—the spot where Mr. Nehru was cre-meted — Prime Minister, Lal Bahadur Shastri lighted a torch which will be carried to all parts of the country as a symbol of Mr. Nehru's ideals.

THE NEW

If you are looking for scarce and key coins you need NUMISCOPE! NUMISCOPE lets you see both sides of the same coin simultaneously . . . counts and wraps unwanted coins for you . . saves your eyes and nerves . . . speeds up checking. With ordinary speed you'll check 1,300 coins per hour (minimum) depending on what you are looking for. Unwanted coins are dropped into a wrapper and counted without any effort. Wanted coins are dropped into a chute. You remove and place them in trays that come with NUMISCOPE: 3 trays, one for each Mint.

Complete, ready to operate. Low cost less than most typewriters. Worth its weight in rare coins.

NOW each tray covers 60 years starting at 1911 and holds 3,000 coins. Made of extra strong aluminum - not stamped or plastic.

NUMISCOPE is the complete and original viewer. Built like a cash register... cast aluminum throughout... beautifully wrinkle finished in black, platinum grey or hammered green. Write for FREE brochure today!
